To the Honorable Board of Trustees of Robinson Seminary:

The present school year has been one in which successful advancement is noticeable to a marked degree. The school is remarkably fortunate not only in retaining the services of nearly all the instructors who were responsible for its unusual achievements of last year, but also in securing new teachers who are fully equal to every demand which their positions make upon them.

The new teachers selected in June are: in German, Miss Marjorie Pollard Graves, A. B., a graduate of Mt. Holyoke in the class of 1911; in Home Economics, Miss M. Virginia Makepeace, A. B., a graduate of Ohio State University in the class of 1909; in English, Miss Roxie Odiorne, A. B., a graduate of Radcliffe in the class of 1911, to succeed Miss Ada S. Varney, who resigned to accept a position in Honolulu; in Music, Miss Charlotte Hall Berry, to succeed Miss Edith J. Ellis.

The proceeds of the Harriett M. Merrill Reference Library Fund and a gift from the Seminarian have been used to purchase several valuable books of reference.

There is still very great need of two rooms large enough to accommodate the two lower classes.

The new curriculum in Home Economics has commended itself to educators who have observed the work, to parents who have visited the school, and to pupils who have elected the subjects of which it is composed. Some parents from towns other than Exeter have already sent their daughters to the Seminary because of the introduction of this course; others have determined to settle in town so as to secure for their daughters the benefits of this line of instruction. Of the two classes which were given the opportunity to elect this curriculum, nearly one-half of the pupils chose it in place of the college course.

The equipment for this work was made possible by the generous gift of $150 by one friend and of $25 by another. This fund was used to purchase sewing machines, two burner hot plates, gas ovens, a refrigerator and a part of the furniture for the dining-room.

The aim of this course is to set before a girl the highest ideals of home life; to train her in practical housekeeping; to cultivate good taste in furnishings and decorations; to teach her such standards of living as will enable her to plan and execute for herself or for others the details of a well-ordered and successful life.

The Home Economics curriculum consists of the same work through the five years in English History and Modern Languages as in the college course. In place of a part of the Mathematics and Science, a course in General Arts is offered, consisting of two periods per week of music, two periods of practical drawing and one of the history of art. In place of Latin, a course in Domestic Arts is offered, consisting in the first year of:

Sewing. — Dressmaking, including design, measuring, drafting, cutting, sewing; use and care of a sewing machine; millinery, elementary study, spring and fall.

Cooking. — Study and care of kitchen and dining-room equipment, gas and coal ranges; preparation and serving of plain dishes; the office of different foods in the nourishment of the body; choice and proper combination of food substances; ratio of cost and nutritive value.

In the second year the study of a house: situation and surroundings; construction, timbers, beams, floors, supporting walls, partitions; location of windows, doors, stairways, chimneys; design; floor plans; decoration, general color schemes; paint; designs for wall paper, rug designs; the study of furniture, construction, design and decoration; serviceable and artistic coverings for furniture.

In the third year, physiology and hygiene: the elements of bacteriology; household sanitation and mechanical appliances; plumbing; heating; lighting; ventilation: electrical appliances; wiring for batteries and electric lights.

In the fourth year, advanced cooking, chemistry of food, food values, dietetics, menus planned to meet various requirements, cleaning fabrics, wood and metal, bleaching, dyeing.

In the fifth year, household economy: economic problems of the home; household expenditure limited to a stated income; division of income; marketing and buying of food, clothing and general family necessities; household accounts and bookkeeping, covering all family expenses.

With hearty appreciation of the assistance and support given me by the Board of Trustees, I am,

Respectfully yours,

HARLAN M. BISBEE.
